

WOMEN WILL BE REAL EQUALS IN 2023

Alice Paul Predicts Bright Future for Sex Through Feminist Revolt.

What effect will modern feminism have on the course of history in the next 100 years?

The Washington Times has asked an eminent feminist, Alice Paul, to contribute to the series by prominent men and women on the world in 2023.

At least one effect of feminism will be to make a woman president of the United States, says Miss Paul.

By ALICE PAUL,
Directing Head, National Woman's Party.
(Copyright, 1922, by Cosmopolitan News Service.)

It will not require one hundred years to elect a woman President of the United States. Before 2023 I think we shall see a woman in the White House as chief executive of the nation and women will comprise half of the membership of Congress.

Throughout the ages the oppression of women, as a sex, has existed. Once having freed themselves from the restrictions to which they have so long submitted and that have made them subject creatures since the beginning of history, women will have the opportunity to revolutionize the world. If they use their opportunity the world of a hundred years from now will be as if a new creation had been achieved.

Real Equals Soon.
My hope for women one hundred years from now is that they no longer will be subject to men in law or custom, that they no longer will be regarded or regarded themselves as inferiors, that they no longer will be the governed half to society, but will participate equally with men in the direction of life.

My hope is that a hundred years from now the world will be no longer a man's world, but a woman's and man's world with each sex participating equally in the control of government, of family, and of industry.

Changes in Morals.

Legislation by sex will then be considered as undemocratic as legislation by creed or color. There will be no sex in work, but every occupation open to men will be open to women and restrictions upon the hours, conditions and remuneration of labor will apply alike to both sexes. Women will be able to enter the priesthood, the ministry and any position of authority in the church on an equal basis with men. Women as well as men will represent our country abroad in the diplomatic service.

The great changes in marriage that will take place within a hundred years will, I believe, establish a woman as a separate entity after marriage, able to contract with her husband regarding the marriage relationship. She no longer will be treated in law as dependent upon her husband for support, but the mutual contribution of husband and wife to the family maintenance will be recognized.

VETERAN STABBED TWICE; POLICE SEEK A BROTHER

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—John Tarquino, twenty-four years old, is in a critical condition in St. Agnes Hospital, with two stab wounds in his breast, said by police to have been inflicted by his brother Steve, of Passyunk avenue, below Morris street, in the latter's home after the stabbing is said to have resulted from a quarrel over the price of some food the two were cooking. Police are searching for Steve and two companions. John was wounded three times in the world war.

RALPH B. STRASSBURGER BUYS NORRISTOWN TIMES

NORRISTOWN, Dec. 28.—Announcement is made that Joseph J. McGinley and his associates have sold the Norristown Times to Ralph B. Strassburger, publisher of the Norristown Daily Herald.

The sale includes the newspaper, commercial printing business and all property of the Times Publishing Company except the real estate. The Times will be hereafter pending formation of permanent plans affecting that newspaper. At a future date the papers will be merged and published at the Herald's present plant.

HYPO-COD STOPPED HIS COUGH AND HE GAINED WEIGHT RAPIDLY

Chest Soreness Disappeared. Phlegm Stopped—It Put Him Back to Work.

BEST REMEDY CHEAPEST BACK TO WORK SOONER

"I had a cold and cough, following a few days in bed with a sick spell that I couldn't shake off. My lungs seemed weak and sore and those everlasting coughing spells would make me so dizzy and weak I couldn't go back to work. A friend of mine said one day: 'George, send down to the Peoples Drug Store and get yourself a couple of bottles of Hypo-Cod. It's the stuff you need if you really want to get back on your feet quick and to work again.' I took his advice and now I consider that Hypo-Cod is the ideal cure for a cold. It tones up your whole system. I am out in all kinds of weather and yet Hypo-Cod built me up so strong and vigorous I can go out, expose myself, get wet, hot and cold and never catch cold. Before I had finished my second bottle I was back at work. I sleep like a log instead of lying

Served In Philippines, In Mexico And In World War

MASTER SERGT. W. ULLRICH, Army War College detachment veteran, who will be discharged Saturday after thirty years of continuous active service.

SERVES THIRTY YEARS IN U. S. ARMY

Sergeant Ullrich, of War College Detachment, to Be Retired.

After thirty years of active service in the army, during which he saw service in all the wars in which the army played a part, Master Sgt. Walter Ullrich, of the Army War College detachment, will be retired from the service Saturday.

Sergeant Ullrich, one of the few remaining old-time noncommissioned officers in active service before the Spanish war, served as a captain and major at the American army headquarters in France during the world war.

He served more than twenty years in the Sixth infantry, fifteen years of this time as sergeant major.

His wartime service comprises three tours in the Philippine islands, the expedition into Mexico under General Pershing, and the world war. Sergeant Ullrich is well known to many of the older officers of the regular army. He has a host of friends in Washington.

Following his discharge he will leave for Leavenworth, Kan., to join his family, and will later make his home in California.

WIFE SAYS BOOTBLACK EARNS $75 A WEEK
NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Nicholas Loprete, who has a bootblack stand in front of the Mechanics Bank building, has been accustomed to spend two or three days at a time at the Saratoga races, has bought a house, has a substantial bank account and earns about $75 a week net, according to his wife, Katherine Loprete, who is suing for separation.

Mrs. Loprete, charging cruel and inhuman treatment, has applied for an award of $35 a week alimony in the Brooklyn supreme court pending trial of her suit.

Loprete denied his wife's charges. There are scores of folks here in Washington who are risking long expensive sick spells by being weak, run-down, this time of year, and it is folly when such a cheap, nice-tasting, pure and wholesome tonic will quickly fortify, build and tone them up. Get rid of that phlegm. Strengthen digestion, stomach, throat and bronchial tubes. Rid the system of minor ailments, colds and coughs. Soon as you build yourself up in the pink of condition nature throws off such troubles like water off a duck's back. Don't wait until you're sick. A stitch in time saves nine and besides it is great to feel good these wintry days, while others are coming down sick with grippe, colds and pneumonia. Drop in tonight. Ask the store manager about Hypo-Cod or take a bottle. Try it yourself. You'll be delighted. PEOPLES DRUG STORES, Washington, D. C.

TRACE DISEASE IN ANGLES OF FACE OF FACE

Doctors Use Measurements in Modern Diagnosis of Illness.

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—In 1930 doctors will measure the distance from your cheekbone to your chin instead of feeling your pulse.

Instead of looking at your tongue, they will measure the lobe of your ear.

And the length of your nose will indicate whether you are susceptible to cancer.

The tendency of diagnostic methods is beginning to be directed toward the measurement of the human body, and particularly the face, in place of the laboratory methods employed at present, according to speakers at the anthropological section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science now in convention at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University.

In Experimental Stage.
The new method in diagnosis was outlined today by Dr. George Draper and Dr. David Seegal, of the Presbyterian Hospital of New York. The method is absolutely new, and is now merely in the experimental stage.

Physicians hark back to the day when an old and experienced doctor would look at a patient's face and general build and say:

"That man suffers from chronic stomach trouble."

The method, according to Dr. Draper, consists in making measurements of various facial dimensions in many thousands of patients suffering from chronic diseases.

These measurements are expected to throw some light on the uncanny ability of the physician of twenty years ago to diagnose diseases without the aid of laboratory investigation.

Complete Measurements.

It is believed likely that if a large percentage of patients suffering from cancer show a high cheekbone, for instance, the presence of a high cheekbone in a child will show a predisposition to cancer.

The process of computing the figures now going on and the speakers were unwilling to venture any specific statement of the relation between particular diseases and any facial measurement.

The popular theory that tall men and heavy men make the best salesmen was refuted by Dr. Harry D. Kistner, professor of psychology at Indiana University, from a study of the earnings of 600 salesmen, representing footwear, a high-grade office specialty and insurance.

No appreciable difference was found between the height and weight of the most successful salesmen; tall and heavy men were as frequent among the poorest salesmen.

MALE BEAUTY IS SECURED FOR SCREEN

This One, Brought From England, Is Said to Eclipse Valentino.

By WILLENE TAYLOR.
(Copyright, 1922, by Cosmopolitan News Service.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—They get prettier and prettier—these heroes of the silver sheet. The handsomest has arrived—Ivor Novello, England's best looking movie actor and the composer of "Keep the Home Fires Burning." He'll remain five years, making seven pictures as D. W. Griffith's leading man.

He arrived wearing his black hair long, for Griffith had cabled him: "Don't trim your hair—important." He began work on "The White Rose" with Mae Marsh today. Ivor has everything earlier sheikhs had, and more. He is Grecian in form and features and fortunate enough to be taller and slimmer than Valentino. He played the lead in the English picture, "Carnival." He wears those "passionate" clothes. His scarf is a deep, wine red.

"I've come to America—my spiritual home," he said.

Griffith picked Ivor from thousands of American applicants, saying he could act as well as look "handsome."

A Welsh girl artist, Margaret Lindsay Williams, has brought a motion picture of her latest work, a panel of 175 historical English leaders. In the picture are intimate peeks at England's political and social kings visiting her studio.

The Theater Owners' Chamber of Commerce has voiced objection to the revival of "The Birth of a Nation" on the grounds that it might encourage the Ku Klux Klan movement. Six years ago, when it first showed, the idea was never thought of.

A new series of travel pictures will be released soon under the serial title of "Children of Other Lands," and "People of Other Lands." They were made by Clyde Elliott.

A new picture is in progress at the Fox studio here. It is from Maravene Thompson's play, "The Net," and is being directed by J. Gordon Edwards.

Hope Hampton is at work at the same studio on a picture with a typical movie name, "Does It Pay?" Mary Thurman has an important role and Peggy Shaw, Robert T. Haines and Florence Short are in the cast.

ROME, Dec. 28.—The Italian army is to be increased to 250,000 men and the period of conscription extended from twelve to eighteen months, it was learned today.

ROCKEFELLER'S DAUGHTER IS 'DEB'

Young Set Attends Party in Honor of Abby's "Coming Out."

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The gayest "debs" and most fashionable young men of New York society today departed from the first "coming out" party to the younger set in honor of Abby Rockefeller, richest heiress in the world, with this question on their lips:

"Who will woo and win America's richest girl?"

Has No Favorite.

Cupid, if he was present at all at the party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., didn't shoot a single arrow into the heart of the granddaughter of the billionaire oil magnate, John D. Rockefeller, sr., so far as could be ascertained.

How the little god of love treated the young men whose names in the world of business and finance represent gold and oil and minerals, and vast wealth otherwise, was the talk of the younger set today.

150 at Gay Dinner.

The merry dinner and dance was attended by about 150 guests. Among the young men were Everett Colby, Charles Denby, Samuel Hammond, Jr., Alfred W. Payne, G. Lyman Paine, Frederick S. Polhemus, and Eugene St. R. Reynal, Corlies Lamont, Bayard Rustin and Minny R. Roy.

The gayety around the huge, dazzling Christmas tree did not subside till nearly 4 a. m.

It was claimed that the arrows in Cupid's bow had not been diminished, and the departing guests departed wondering what name the world's wealthiest debutante will some day bear.

NEW CARS WILL HAVE LITTLE WHEELS

Coming Show Will Have Motors in Colors to Match Gowns.

By WALTER VOGDES.
Cosmopolitan News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Car colors will follow clothes in 1923; blues and fawn hues will predominate and wheels and tires will be much smaller, it was predicted at the Grand Central Palace here today, where preparations are in order for the national automobile show opening January 6.

The show will reveal more cars than have been shown at any previous exhibition. Every attempt has been made to keep the new models secret, but it is declared the 1923 cars will rest on small wheels similar to the ones revealed at the London and Paris shows. That means more revolutions but just as much speed, say the makers.

Fawn color and soft blues will predominate, it is said, because they are restful to the eyes and nerves. Paris and New York modes in gowns have been studied in working out car color schemes and in a number of cases Parisian and American interior decorators have lent their talents to the creation of limousine interiors. Wall space in the larger limousines for etchings and small paintings is said to be a new wrinkle.

Closed cars will predominate over open cars, but then many of the new closed cars will have devices by which they can be changed into open cars in a twinkling.

Engines will remain about the same. Manufacturers say that engines have been constructed along the same lines for about two years because they have reached the peak.

CLAIM LIST FOR $10,000 MURDER REWARD CLOSES

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28.—Under the rules of court, the time limit for filing claims to participate in the reward of $10,000 offered for the arrest and conviction of the bandits who killed William B. Norris, August 18, last, expired yesterday. Last to file before the expiration was Frank J. Bennis, who made his claim in circuit court No. 2.

There were forty-two possible claimants mentioned in the proceedings instituted for the purpose of having the court determine to whom the money should be paid.

In his answer Bennis claims to have furnished the police information which led to the arrest of Jack Hart in the home of Bernard Livingston in Washington.

ADMITS GOLD BAG THEFT FROM BARUCH'S HOME

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Charged with having stolen a gold mesh hand bag while working in the home of Bernard M. Baruch, banker, John O'Brien, forty-three, a carpenter, was held yesterday for the Grand Jury in $5,000 bail.

O'Brien waived examination after admitting he took the bag to provide his wife and three children in Philadelphia with necessities.

He said he had seen other valuable jewelry in the dresser, but had taken only the bag as he had believed the money he would obtain for it would supply him with funds until he could get on his feet.

PRISONER DIDN'T KNOW WHERE HE GOT GEESE

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28.—There are nine unique prisoners at the Northwest police station. Edward Hill, who was arrested Christmas Eve for celebrating too vociferously, declared in police court yesterday that he did not know where the nine white geese came from that the police found at his home.

The geese are now "held" at the station house until an owner appears to claim them.
